

I'm interested, but I'm not free one/both days. Can I access the recordings afterward?

YES! Recordings will be available until December 31, 2021. There is a registration option for medical professionals who would like to access the recordings but cannot attend live. Please note, at this time CME credits are only available for people who attend the live sessions.

I don't have much experience in fertility awareness. Will I be able to understand the conference material?

We are structuring the conference so that all attendees will find the information accessible, understandable, and useful – no FABM background knowledge required! If you are new to FABMs, we strongly encourage you to attend our pre-conference sessions. There are two left!

Thursday, May 6th at 7:30pm ET – How to Read the Chart of the Female Cycle
Monday, May 10th at 7:30pm ET – The Female Cycle as the Fifth Vital Sign

I attended a previous FACTS Conference. Will this one be different?

YES! We have all new presentations for this conference. We selected topics and speakers based on YOUR suggestions from previous conference feedback. We are bringing back some of our most highly rated speakers and welcoming new speakers, who are also experts in the field. We will have more presentations, including breakout sessions, so you are sure to learn a lot more!

Can I earn CEUs or CNEs for this conference?

This conference is approved for up to 14 CME credits through the American Academy of Family Physicians, but we have not applied separately for CEU or CNE credits. However, AAFP prescribed credit is also accepted by a number of other organizations, including nursing organizations as listed here. Please note that CME credits are only available for live attendees.

Is the "student" registration only for medical students?

If you are a full-time student, you may register at the student rate. If you are a working professional and are taking classes, please register using the regular rate.

I'm a FACTS member and would like to register - what's my member discount promo code?

Please email info@factsaboutfertility.org to receive your promo code.

I registered for the conference. How do I access the content?

About 1-2 weeks before the conference we will email you a conference pre-assessment for you to complete. Once you submit it, we will send you the link to log in via zoom.

Will there be an opportunity to learn more about individual natural methods or opportunities to use these methods in practice?

YES! Join us at lunch and before our Happy Hour on Friday to visit our exhibitors, including representatives from different NFP or FABM organizations, medical organizations that incorporate FABMs into practice, and FemTech companies.

Happy Hour? What is that all about?

Everyone one is welcome to join us via zoom on Friday evening, May 14th from 5 – 6pm ET to connect with other conference participants, meet some of our speakers and learn more about them! Grab your favorite drink and get to know fellow participants passionate about fertility awareness!
